

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

BRIAN McKNIGHT, et al.,

Case No. 3:14-cv-05615-JST

Plaintiff,

v.

UBER TECHNOLOGIES, INC., et al.,

Defendants.

OBJECTION TO REQUEST FOR ATTORNEYS' FEES

Class member Jennifer Hinojosa, 4932 SW 19th Street Gainesville FL 32653 hereby objects to Class Counsel's request for attorney's fees. Ms. Hinojosa has filed Payment Election claims and her claim numbers are VA9NPQPE and NOLAWVZS.

The attorneys' fees in this matter should be less than this circuit's 25% benchmark. This case was filed on December 23, 2014, and the first settlement was announced a year later on December 14, 2015. The case was stayed while this Court considered the proposed settlement, which was ultimately rejected on August 30, 2016. Thereafter, the parties reached a second proposed settlement in April 2017. In this matter although this case has been pending for three years, the amount of time during which this case was actively litigated was relatively small. Bloomberg reported that Uber's revenue from the fee was $449 million.

<https://www.bloomberg.com/news/articles/2016-08-31/another-uber-settlement-is-rejected-this-time-over-riders-fee>. Therefore there was little risk that Uber wouldn't settle to avoid that potential downside liability. It is not a coincidence that the $32.5 million settlement is about 7.5 percent of the downside liability.

1 In common fund cases, Courts in the Ninth Circuit may use either the percentage-of-fund
 2 or the lodestar method to determine a reasonable fee, as long as the resulting fee is reasonable.
 3 Powers v. Eichen, 229 F.3d 1249, 1256 (9th Cir. 2000). Class Counsel's lodestar is strongly
 4 presumed to be a reasonable fee which, like the percentage benchmark, may be adjusted to 5 account for the circumstances of the case. Cunningham v. Cnty. of Los Angeles, 879 F.2d 481,
 6 488 (9th Cir. 1988) (the lodestar figure is "presumptively reasonable.").

7 In Rose v. Bank of Am. Corp., 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 121641 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 29, 2014)
 8 the Court denied a request for a 25% fee in a case that, like this one, posed little risk and was not 9 extensively litigated.. The Rose Court gave close scrutiny to class counsel's lodestar. Such 10 scrutiny here reveals that almost 40% of all time expended was related to settlement, not 11 litigation.

12 For the foregoing reasons, this Court should award Class Counsel a fee based on their 13 lodestar..
